THE POUDRETTE QUESTION -In the course of the recent trial before the Criminal Court of this city, wherein the proprietor of the Poudrette factory on Fourteenth street was prosecuted for the creation of a nuisance, there seemed to be some misunderstanding as to the possibility of disposing of the article of which poudrette is manufactured otherwise than according to the old plan of leaving it in piles on the outskirts of the city, to poison the atmosphere for square miles around, or to manufacture it as at present into poudrette within striking distance of the nasal organs of thousands, which, we care not what scientific men may say to the contrary, cannot be happy in its effect on the public health. Thousands among us know well that the smell is almost as offensive at this day for a circle with a mile long radius, as it was when "the old fields" of the city were mere deposit grounds for the result of the scavengers' labors. Anything that taints the air is dangerous to publie health. In a certain state the piles of ex crement that formerly were dumped on the "old fields" gave out no odor. In other states the edor evolved from them was terrible in its effects on those compelled to inhale it. So it must be with poudrette factories.

On the 5th of October last we published a description of the manner in which the excrement of the city of Paris is disposed of, and we append herewith an extract from that article, snowing how it may be similarly disposed of in Washington, to great advantage to our city's health and treasury. Every load now sold to the poudrette makers by the scavengers is worth only 62t cents, while every similar load sold in New York, where it is delivered on board boats or vessels, sells for $3.621, or 18 cents per bushel. It will cost but a song comparatively, to adopt here the plan explained in the appended extract; while instead of being a tax upon the community, if it were adopted, the duty of ridding Washington of its excrement would soon be a source of positive revenue to the Corporation's trea-

"To us it appears that a remedy will be found in placing the excrement in hogsbeads, instead of the cart with open top. The tub used at present to carry the excrement from the privies to the cart would require simply to be converted into a funnel by fixing a copper tube in its bottom, allowing each side of the staves to extend a little below the tube. so that in setting the tub down the tube may not be injured. The tube to have a stopper, with a handle attached to it, to open and close on the upper side of the bottom, so that the operator's hand may not be soiled. A dray that will haul from four to six empty hogsheads, (or as many as are required.) similar to those used in hauling flour from Georgetown, is all that is required, differing from the present plan. When the work of the night commences, as many empty hogsheads as will be required are placed on the dray. Stepping at the first house the funnel or tub is filled, refilled, and emptied in the hogshead nearest the end of the dray, until all is removed, when the bung is closed, and the scavenger moves on to the next house When the and rolled off of the dray, and examined to quiet way. We learn that both whipped see that it is perfectly clean, and if not should be washed clean and left at the curb. Another hogshead is then rolled to the end of the dray, and the same process continued until all are full, each hogshead being left near the gutter where it is filled Care must be taken that they are left perfectly clean and the next day they can be hauled away to any placed desired, as an article of commerce. By this plan, they can be kept perfectly clean and may be placed in any store Whatever plan may be found advisable, whether to ship down the river or haul into the country, all is safe and inoffensive and may be removed without danger. The only expense to be incurred by the scavengers is the purchase of hogsheads, a supply of 18 possibly may be required for each scavenger to allow time for purchasers to return the empty ones. "On examining the subject it may be considered advisable for the corporation to furnish the casks and keep them in repair, and also to retain the control and disposal of the excrement after its delivery by the scavengers in hogsheads at depots designated by the Mayor All expenses will be amply provided for by the sales. Supposing the population of all kinds at present to be 70 000 souls, the annual product will be 11,520,000 gallons, (based on calculations made for Strasburg, France) which, at 5 cents per bushel, will yield $72,000 annually."

THE ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT OF THE MED ICAL DEPARTMENT of Georgetown College took place at the Smithsonian Institution last night. The exercises commenced with music by Esputa's Band, after which came the reading, by Prof. F. Howard, (Dean of Georgetown College.) the commission authorizing Georgetown College to confer the degree of Doctor in Medicine

The degrees were conferred by Rev. Ber-College, and the address to the graduates was delivered by Prof. Johnson Eliot. Prof Eliot's address evinced much liberality of feeling and practical good sense. The rise of the profession of medicine-coeval with the sufferings of man-and its progress through various vicissitudes to its present position, was sketched. The work was still unfinished, and was to be carried on with persevering application and careful observation. The close study of anatomy, chemistry, and physiology, was earnestly recommended to the graduates. In anatomy they should not confine themselves to the human structure, but the study should be carried on from the lowest grade of animal organization to the highest The uses of chemistry and physiology were dwelt upon. Anatomy and chemistry furnish the materials for study, and physiology the means of applying them. The great aid rendered to med ical science by that wonderful instrument, the microscope, was acknowledged.

Medicine being a liberal profession, its followers should be characterized by liberality of feeling. The difference of opinion which will always exist in relation to medical doctrines skould not cause ill feeling among practitioners. The delicate relation in which medical men stand towards those families when their professional services are required was spoken of; the implicit confidence reposed in the physician should never be violated. The graduates were recommended never to be the voluntary confidants of secrets. They were warned, too, that the profession they were entering upon was not a lucrative one, and though a physician occasionally amassed wealth, other professions and occupations brought much more certain pecuniary gains. Many physicians starting in life attempted to make themselves socially popular by attaching themselves to every club and society to which they could gain admission, but the popularity thus attained was ephemeral in its character. The graduates were urged under no circumstances to enter the political arena. The speaker stated that he had never heard of an eminent political physician, and he would challenge the country to produce one.

The graduates were J. H. Jordan, of Va; F. S. Barberin, D. C; J. M. Malone, Ireland; C. J. P. Girad, France; and C. M. Hammett,

MR EVERETT'S ORATION .- It will be seen that the price of tickets for admission to the Smithsonian Institute on the occasion of the delivery of this oration has been fixed at one dollar. There is somewhat of a disposition on the part of the public to complain of the price as too high, but it should be remembered that the amount realized goes to nobody's private benefit, but is to be devoted exclusively to that object which every patriot must have so dear at heart, the purchase of Mount Vernon for the use of the nation; and under these circumstances every one will cheerfully give the half dollar over and above the ordinary lecture rates. The undertaking is in the hands of energetic and whole souled gen. tlemen, and will undoubtedly realize a handsome sum for the attainment of the object to which the eloquent speaker so patriotically devotes his best services

COURT OF CLAIMS -Yesterday, in the case of Almanzon Huston, Mr. Rockwell submitted an argument in reply to the Solicitor

The argument in the case of Joseph Nock was resumed by Mr. Parish, who had not con-

THE PRICE CHARGED .- Two or three correspondents complain on account of the price charged for admission to hear the lecture of the Hon. Edward Everett, it being twice the price charged elsewhere for seats at his lectures for the same public spirited object.

In explanation, we have to say, that the committee of citizens who are charged with the task of raising money in this city to swell the fund for the purchase of Mount Vernon, placed the price at a dollar, because, after consultation among themselves, they came to the conclusion that at that price quite as many tickets would be sold as will fill the hall with auditors. If their judgment is correct, of course they have done well for their trust, which is to raise as much money for the object as possible. Mr. Everett receives no compensation whatever for his lecture other than the thanks and commendation of the public. We do not hold that the committee are blameable for the adoption of any price that will raise the most money. If they could sell every ticket for ten dollars each, of course t would be their duty to their trust so to do ; their object being simply to raise as much money as possible.

PROF. JOHNSON AND FROST'S CONCERT -By reference to the advertisement it will be seen that Professors Johnson and Frost having to pass through Washington on their way to attend several Musical Conventions in Virginia, will give a concert to-night at Carusi's Saloon, assisted by Miss Whitehouse and Miss Briggs. Our readers will remember Miss Whitehouse as having a very beautiful and highly cultivated soprano voice. Miss Briggs too made a very pleasing impression upon our citizens. Prof. Frost is a tenor, having a voice of much flexibility and beauty, and Mr. Johnson though very unpretending in his style, is a really good performer, getting through every thing he undertakes handsomely, and throw-ing over all a dash of quiet humor which renders him deservedly popular. As this is the only night they can perform in Washington our music-loving population will doubtless avail themselves of the opportunity.

THREE IN A BED .- Three genteel looking persons entered the central guard house about one o'clock this morning, and without asking permission took possession of a settee and laid down to sleep, piled one on another. The officer in charge inquired what they wanted, and was told that they could get in no where else, and thought they had best step in there. The officer asked their names, that he might register them. But the gents suspecting that their names might appear in the Star this evening, gave that as an excuse for a swift

To THE CHARITABLE - Several benevolent individuals have started a subscription to raise a sum sufficient to establish the widow of the unfortunate fireman Anderson in some business that will enable her to support her family of four small children. This afflicted family have peculiar claims upon the community, and we hope that a sufficient amount for the required purpose may be promptly realized. The subscription paper has been left at this office, and we shall be happy to take charge of any donation the charitable may feel disposed

FIGHTING -A short fight came off last night on Seventh street between two gentlemen, who hogshead is thus filled, it is tightly bunged might have settled their differences in a more

A row occurred among the colored inhabitants of Crow Hill, near N and Fifth streets. It was caused by children fighting at a pump, the parents taking sides with them. Two of the principal actors were arrested by Officer Stewart, and held to bail for court by Justice

DANGEROUS MANIAC .- A few days since, a man named Knowles was sent to the county jail as a maniac. The evidence of a physician was given, proving that he is a dangerous maniac; and we are informed that it is necessary to obtain certificates from two physicians to have him removed to the Asylum, where his friends will have to pay his board | Gate. weekly. If this is not done the poor man must be released by the next Grand Jury.

CAPITAL OYSTEES .- The very best oysters we have ever seen in this city, are a large cargo of the bivalves from Musquito Creek, a tributary of the Chesapeake, a few miles below the mouth of the Potomac. Benter & Dubant were the fortunate purchasers of nearly the whole load, we hear. We presume that they will have them on hand for some time RECOVERY OF STOLEN GOODS .- Yesterday officer Keese obtained from a blacksmith named Rogers, a lot of iron articles, which had been stolen from the American Hotel. Rogers, though the purchaser, loses nothing by returning the goods; he having suspected them to have been stolen, did not pay the money to the colored man who sold them, and has not been arrested.

GERMAN MASQUERADE -Last evening a ball was given at the Assembly rooms, by a number of our German citizens who had subscribed for the purpose. A large and very respectablo party were assembled, and we learn that nard A. Maguire, president of Georgetown | the arrangements were such that nothing | Farm, 7th street road, near the first Toll Gate. could occur to mar the pleasure of the evening. It was not generally known that such a ball was to be given, and of course the company passed the time happily.

> ABOLITION Pow wow .- The "Republicans" mustered at Temperance Hall last night to the number of fifty-five persons, all told, including five females, with the exception of here and there a dropper-in through curiosity, the gathering consisted notoriously of northern abolitionists. An address was read by a Mr.

THREATS .- Julia Grant and Mary Brown (colored.) were arrested this morning by officer Burr, for threatening Elizabeth Grant, a witness in the Criminal Court against their friends who were convicted. They were taken before Captain Birch, who held them to bail to keep the peace. Elizabeth Grant was also ordered to give security for peace.

"MERCURY" announces the reading (at the Medical commencement last night) of the co mmission authorizing Georgetown College to confer the degree of Doctor in Medicine by Professor Dean; the conferring of degrees by Barnard A Magunnie; with music by the Marine Band. Pretty good for a guess!

ACCIDENT -Yesterday, a son of George D Spencer, Esq , broke his arm while playing with several of his friends. We are told that this youth has been unfortunate with his arms. they having been broken or injured several times by various accidents. He is thought to be doing very well this morning.

A CITIZEN OF WASHINGTON DEAD -We hear incidentally to day, that a despatch has been received here, announcing that J. Monroe Chubb (of Chubb Brothers, Bankers) died yesterday at Jacksonville, Florida, whither he had gone in the hope of finding relief from a pulmonary affection, under which he had been suffering for some time.

NATIONAL THEATRE .- Forrest to-night sustains his great part of Metamora in Stone's tragedy of that name. The nights entertainment concludes with "The Spectre Bridegroom," with the irresistable Jefferson as Diggory."

FATAL ACCIDENT .- A colored woman residing in the Seventh Ward, on E, near Third street, left her house in charge of two children; while she was at market one of them, by an accident, was so severely burned that it has since died.

An ATTEMPT was made yesterday merning to fire some property situated on north M street, belonging to Dr. Ironside The attempt was discovered, and the fire extinguished before any material damage was

GEORGETOWN CORRESPONDENCE.

Georgerown, March 26, 1855. The appointments (of preachers) for our Methodist and Methodist Protestant friends by their conferences seems to meet with a very cordial acceptance among the members of both denominations. The Rev. Mr. Brown was at his post on last Sabbath morning and preached for his congregation. His discourse made a very decided impression upon his hearers, and the only opinion that we have yet heard advanced among them is that he is the very man for the place at the present time. The Rev. Mr. Murry, of the Methodist Pretestant church has been stationed in our secure for him a very warm reception. The packet Argo, which left on Monday morning for Harper's Ferry, has not yet returned. The last time she was heard of, she was at Seneca yesterday morning. The presumption is that she encountered considerable quantities of ice on the route. This goes to show the manifest indifference or negligence upon the part of the managers of the canal. to enort was made to open navigation upon it until the Messrs. Ritter themselves went to work and spent some two days or more upon t e lowel levels trying to open a track for their packets. There are large quantities of coal and other kinds of produce now in waiting to be forwarded to market, but is detained in consequence of the ice at several points. This, we are assured by persons who know, could easily have been removed before this, had proper efforts been made by the general superintendent of the line.

The lecture before the Young Catholic Friend's Society at Forrest Hall this evening will doubtless attract an immense concourse of persons. There seems to be an anxiety among all classes of our citizens to hear the learned lecturer.

The exhibition of the Trinity Church Sabbath School on to-morrow evening is anxiously looked forward to by the friends of the pupils, and doubtless the sprightly little actors will have an immense concourse of persons to witness their interesting exercises. Business, though not very brisk, seems to be gradually and steadily increasing.

Wood in considerable quantities is begin-ning to come into market, and prices by the retail have considerably declined. The flour market is firm at $7 and upwards as in quality. The stock on hand is very light, and as none has yet been able to reach market by canal sales are small, and confined chiefly to the retail trade. Wheat comes in slowly by wagons, and is selling at $1.40a $1 50 for white and red. Corn 55c. SPECTATOR.
